B.A in Mathematics with a specialization in Statistics, including courses in Computer Sciences and Economics, Tel Aviv University.

M.A in Urban Studies with a specialization in Urban Economics, Tel Aviv University.

D.Arch with a specialization in Computer-Aided Design, Carnegie Mellon University.

Key Data

Jacob (Kobi) joined Yasky & Co. in 1971 as CFO, and from then on began his involvement in the office's Urban Planning Department. At the same time, Kobi was a research assistant at Tel Aviv University and his work there included preparing the Ayalon Highway demand forecasts. In 1978 Kobi relocated to the US and was a research assistant at Carnegie Mellon for three years, where he developed an integrative CAD system for the US Army Corps of Engineers.

Upon his return to Israel in 1981, Kobi joined the planning team at Israel Aerospace Industries as software engineer, and was involved in developing a piping routing CAD system.

From 1982, for about eight years, Kobi was R&D manager at Cimatron, a CAD system development company, from the company's founding to managing a team of over 20 software engineers. For two years he was also VP Sales and Marketing.
